O'Brien Steel Service Co. has completed an acquisition of the assets of Sligo Steel's Madison, Illinois operation. The facility contains approximately 135,000 square feet. This acquisition will expand O'Brien Steel's geographic reach and allow it to better service its customers in the Missouri, southern Illinois, and greater St. Louis area. Going forward, this location will operate under the O'Brien Steel Service brand.

O'Brien Steel Service Co. is a family-owned and operated steel service center headquartered in Peoria, Illinois. Established in 1975, O'Brien Steel distributes steel products including, but not limited to, bars, beams, tubing, plate, and sheet. In addition, O'Brien Steel offers extensive value-added processing capabilities including sawing, plate burning, laser cutting, tube laser cutting, shotblasting, forming, CNC machining, beveling, welding, painting, and heat treating. Madison will be O'Brien Steel's eighth location with the other seven locations residing in Illinois and Wisconsin. This marks O'Brien Steel's third acquisition since 2020.
